PRACTICAL INFORMATIONS:

Game instructions:

The game consists of throwing a metal puck/disc (called a tejo) and introduce it into a metallic circle (bocín) in which folded paper triangles containing gunpowder (called mechas) are placed, winning the game whoever completes 27 points first, bursting the most mechas, introducing the tejo in the bocín, grabbing some Hands or making Strike. In Tejo, both individual and team competitions are held.

The scoring, in most places, is quantified as follows:

- Hand: It grants 1 point to the tejo that is closest at the end of a round.
- Hit: It grants 3 points to every player that explodes a mecha.
- Bulls-eye: It grants 6 points to that player whose tejo has impacted inside the target.
- Strike: It grants 9 points to that player that has a hit and a bulls-eye in the same throw.

The player who gets the first the Hand or makes the first Hit, Bulls-eye or Strike of the rounds starts first in the next round.
